MRT Food Sensitivity Testing

We are excited to introduce a groundbreaking addition to our services that will not only enhance your well-being but also transform the way we approach health and beauty. New Life Aesthetics will soon be offering the Mediator Release Testing (MRT) for food sensitivities. We are committed to providing you with the latest and most innovative solutions to improve your quality of life. The MRT is a simple, patented blood test that identifies our body's reactions to 140 foods and 30 food chemicals by measuring the number of mediators released and the subsequent changes in white blood cells. In this way, the MRT test can identify which items cause an inflammatory response in your body. This cutting-edge tool can significantly impact your overall health and aesthetic journey. MRT offers a highly personalized approach to your dietary choices. By identifying your unique food sensitivities, we can craft a tailored nutritional plan that aligns with your aesthetic and wellness goals. The MRT test can help identify causes of inflammation that affect skin health, gut health, and immune system balance. This holistic approach supports our commitment to helping you achieve radiant, healthy skin and overall wellness. Stay tuned for more information on MRT!
